ITALY HAS SENT FLEET WARSHIPS TO TURKISH PORT, BELIEF OF ROME

ROME, Jan. 11.---Five Italian warships and a flotilla of torpedo destroyers sailed from Taranto at 7:00 o'clock Saturday, just an hour after the expiration of the time limit named in the ultimatum to Turkey. The fleet is under sealed orders, but it is rumored that its destination is Hodeida, where the Turks arrested the British consul while under the protection of the Italian flag.

ATHENS, Jan. 11---The fort guarding the south side of the Dardanelles has been demolished by bombardment from the Allies' warships and has been evacuated. Two other forts were badly damaged.

BUCHAREST, Jan. 11.---Influenced largely by the Russian advance through Bokowina, Roumania will shortly enter the European war aligned with the allies. It seems certain that Greece will, by tacit agreement, follow immediately.

MISS JANE JOHNSON FOUND DEAD IN BED

ELDERLY MAIDEN LADY OF PORT ORANGE PASSED AWAY SATURDAY NIGHT---FUNERAL AND INTERMENT THIS AFTERNOON.

Miss Jane E. Johnson, aged 78, of Port Orange, retired Saturday night as well as usual, apparently, but when an attempt was made to awaken her Sunday morning it was discovered that she had expired during the night. To some heart weakness was ascribed the cause of death. Miss Johnson resided at the home of her brother, George Johnson.

The funeral took place in the Port Orange M. E. church Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. James L. Futrills conducting the services. Interment was made in the nearby cemetery immediately after the funeral.

Miss Johnson is survived by the brother with whom she lived and J. Wesley Johnson, of Daytona.

GERMANS ATTEMPTING REACH WARSAW FROM ANOTHER DIRECTION

PETROGRAD, JAN. 11.---ADVANCING ALONG THE RAILROAD FROM MLAWA, THE GERMANS ARE STRIKING TOWARD NOVOGEORGEVSK, THE GREAT FORTRESS GUARDING WARSAW ON THE NORTHWEST. EVERY STEP MADE BY THE ENEMY IS BEING STUBBORNLY CONTESTED BY THE RUSSIANS, WHO A MONTH AGO DROVE THE GERMANS BACK TO THE FRONTIER ONLY TO FALL BACK IN TURN BEFORE THE LATTER'S REENFORCEMENTS.

AT BOGURZYNER, SOUTHWEST OF MLAWA, THE RUSSIANS INFLICTED HEAVY LOSSES UPON THE ADVANCING GERMANS, AND THEN EFFECTED A WITHDRAWAL WITH SOME SMALL LOSSES, FELL BACK BEHIND KONOPKI, AND KILLED 300 GERMANS BY MINING A TROOP TRAIN.

WEST OF WARSAW THE SITUATION IS UNCHANGED. FIGHTING AT MOGIELNICA CONTINUES, WITH THE GERMANS LOSING HEAVILY.

AT THE SOUTH, THE RUSSIANS ARE ADVANCING STEADILY THROUGH BOKOWINA, TAKING MANY PRISONERS, AND WILL SOON ENTER HUNGARY THROUGH BORGA PASS. AT KIEV ALONE 16,000 AUSTRIAN PRISONERS HAVE ARRIVED.

ON THE TURKISH FRONT, THE REORGANIZED TENTH OTTOMAN CORPS IS FIGHTING DESPERATELY TO ESCAPE ANNIHILATION.

GERMAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

BERLIN, Jan. 11 (Official).---The French captured a part of the German trenches north of Soissons, but succeeded in holding only a small portion of them. The enemy also took some of our trenches east of Perthes, but these were subsequently recaptured, with heavy French losses. The Germans have made further gains in the Argonnes. The attacks of our forces in Poland are making slow progress, on account of the unfavorable weather.

BOOSTERS IN DAYTONA BEACH AND SEABREEZE SHOULD GET TOGETHER

DAILY NEWS WANTS ASSISTANTS FROM GENERAL PUBLIC---THE MORE THE MERRIER---WILL OPEN PENINSULA OFFICE.

Believing that an exclusive department devoted to the social and business interests of Daytona Beach and Seabreeze will meet with popular favor by the good people of the twin cities, the Daily News has taken pertinent office room with J. E. D. Dixon, corner Peninsula Drive and Halifax avenue, where advertising, job printing and news matter will be received by Sidney Pendell, under whose supervision the department is to be conducted.

A portion of the issue, as soon as it can be arranged satisfactorily, will be sent direct to the Peninsula office and the carrier boys will receive their papers there for distribution in Daytona Beach and Seabreeze. This will eradicate the delay that has often been caused by the newsboys having to come over to the main office and return with their papers.

Any assistance that may be rendered by the general public in furnishing items of news for the department will be greatly appreciated. It is hoped that the Daily News will be able to cover the peninsula like the dew, and this can be readily accomplished if the boosters will get together and "push a good thing along."

AUTOMOBILE STRUCK BY ELECTRIC CAR

DRIVER OF OVERLAND ATTEMPTS TO CROSS TRACK DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF APPROACHING CAR.

An Overland touring car from the Princess Issena hotel, driven by P. H. Horne, was struck at about noon on Monday by a car of the Central of Florida railway at the intersection of Peninsula drive and Harvey avenue, on the peninsula. The driver escaped with some slight injury to an arm, but the car was thrown against a telephone or electric light pole and pretty badly damaged.

The automobile was being driven westward on Harvey avenue and the driver attempted to cross the track directly in front of the electric car, it is said, instead of allowing it to pass. Horne was alone in the car at the time. Witnesses say it was a case of bad judgment on the part of the driver of the Overland and that the crew of the electric car, Conductor Latham and Motorman M. Clark, were in nowise to blame. There were about a half dozen passengers on the car at the time of the accident, but none were hurt and no damage resulted to the car.

Mrs. C. M. Vandewater, who has been spending the last week with her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Fitzgerald, returned to Malabar, Sunday, where she will visit her son, A. J. Vandewater.

SUDDEN DEATH OF WINTER RESIDENT

THEODORE MCARTNEY, OF OHIO, SUCCUMBED TO VIOLENT ATTACK OF ASTHMA EARLY SATURDAY EVENING.

At his apartments on West Orange avenue, about 7:00 o'clock Saturday evening, Theodore McCartney suffered an extremely violent attack of asthma, a malady with which he had been afflicted intermittently for a long while, and died immediately. When left alone in his room for a few moments he was apparently resting easily, but when his daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. M. McCartney, returned she found him lifeless. Medical aid was hurriedly summoned, but efforts to resuscitate the aged gentleman were fruitless.

Mr. McCartney, accompanied by his son and the latter's wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. McCartney, came to Daytona two months ago to get the benefit of the low altitude and mild climate, and had improved steadily almost from the day of his arrival.

The body was prepared for burial by Bingham & Maley Co., undertakers, and started this afternoon, via rail, for the family home at Shrondsville, Ohio, where the funeral and interment will take place.

The deceased Mr. McCartney was 61 years old and a retired business man of Shrondsville.

An Attempt At Conversion

By EUNICE BLAKE

"Jim," said Ned, "what do you suppose has happened to our family?"

"What?"

"Sallie has joined the suffragette movement. She's full of it, as all new converts are of the cause they are converted to. She's bound to march in a big procession they're preparing for. And, worst of all, it's making her a man hater."

"Edith has gone the same way. I've lectured and scolded to no purpose. She says that women have been subjugated long enough, and it's time for them to achieve their independence."

"I wonder, Jim, if you could have any more effect on Sallie than I. I think she rather admires you. Maybe if you show her a little attention and bring in your antipathy to the suffragette movement you might draw her away from it."

"And you might try for the same result with Edith. But, for my part, I wouldn't come down on her fad at first. I'd out-Herod Herod till I got some control over her, and then I'd put the screws on."

"Right you are! If you agree we'll start in at once. Will your sister be at home this evening?"

"I reckon so."

A few weeks later these two young men met on the street where a parade of suffragists was forming. Each man carried a banner on which was inscribed "Votes For Women."

"Hello, Jim!"

"Hello, Ned!"

"What you doing with that thing?"

"The same as you're doing with yours, I suppose."

"I'm playing suffragist in order to work my way into the good graces of your sister."

"And I'm doing the same to ingratiate myself with your sister."

There was silence for a few minutes, each eying the other somewhat contemptuously.

"Seems to me," said Jim, "that you look ridiculous holding up a banner like that."

"How do you think you look yourself?"

"I couldn't say it to any one except you, but I'm on the eve of an engagement with your sister, and it's arranged between us that if I'll march just this once with a suffragette parade she'll have me. She says it's a matter of pride with her before sheering off from the cause to show the sisters that she doesn't do it to please any man, her fiance being in favor of votes for women."

"That's funny. I have the same arrangement with Edith."

"You have?"

"Of course I have. Do you want me to keep saying it all day?"

"Well, I'll be jiggered!"

At that moment came an order to fall in, and each one of these young men shamefacedly took position in the ranks, and beside each was the girl he was converting. But the procession had no sooner moved than each girl dropped behind the man with whom she had made the agreement aforesaid and, taking a stuffed club from a neighbor in the ranks, went through a pantomime of striking the banner carrier before her, only the club was not permitted to reach his back. The consequence was that the spectators were enjoying a performance of which the principals were ignorant. Finally a blow fell unintentionally on Ned's shoulder. He turned and saw the rank in the rear laughing at him. Throwing down his banner, he left the procession in high dudgeon.

The lines moved on, and pretty soon along came Jim, whom Ned's sister was treating in the same way Ned had been treated.

"Come out of that, Jim. You're making a guy of yourself. Look behind you."

Jim ...

AT THE NAUTILUS THIS WEEK.

It has been decided by the management of the Nautilus casino to continue free admission to the Palm Garden and bathing pavilion every day lounging room in the bathing pavilion for reading or playing of games, and swimming and diving exhibitions are given there every afternoon and evening.

Exhibitions of modern dance movements are given every afternoon and evening in the ball room.

Mothers are especially invited to visit the Nautilus and allow their children to enjoy the playground and other amusements provided. Arrangements have been made for combined swimming and dancing classes for the young folks.

There has been much favorable comment regarding the Nautilus lady orchestra. Miss Alice M. Wyker has perfected an excellent organization and they render a high grade of music especially adapted to dancing. All the ladies are from Chicago. Their concerts Sunday afternoon and evening were highly praised by the hundreds who attended.

An Attempt At Conversion

"Jim," said Ned, "what do you suppose has happened in our family?"

"What?"

"Sallie has joined the suffragette movement. She's full of it, as all new converts are of the cause they are converted to. She's bound to march in a big procession they're preparing for. And, worst of all, it's making her a man hater."

"Edith has gone the same way. I've lectured and scolded to no purpose. She says that women have been subjugated long enough, and it's time for them to achieve their independence."

"I wonder, Jim, if you could have any more effect on Sallie than I. I think she rather admires you. Maybe if you show her a little attention and bring in your antipathy to the suffragette movement you might draw her away from it."

"And you might try for the same result with Edith. But, for my part, I wouldn't come down on her fad at first. I'd out-Herod Herod till I got some control over her, and then I'd put the screws on."

"Right you are! If you agree we'll start in at once. Will your sister be at home this evening?"

"I reckon so."

A few weeks later these two young men met on the street where a parade of suffragists was forming. Each man carried a banner on which was inscribed "Votes For Women."

"Hello, Jim!"

"Hello, Ned!"

"What you doing with that thing?"

"The same as you're doing with yours, I suppose."

"I'm playing suffragist in order to work my way into the good graces of your sister."

"And I'm doing the same to ingratiate myself with your sister."

There was silence for a few minutes, each eying the other somewhat contemptuously.

"Seems to me," said Jim, "that you look ridiculous holding up a banner like that."

"How do you think you look yourself?"

"I couldn't say it to any one except you, but I'm on the eve of an engagement with your sister, and it's arranged between us that if I'll march just this once with a suffragette parade she'll have me. She says it's a matter of pride with her before sheering off from the cause to show the sisters that she doesn't do it to please any man her fiance being in favor of votes for women."

"That's funny. I have the same arrangement with Edith."

"You have?"

"Of course I have. Do you want me to keep saying it all day?"

"Well, I'll be jinged!"

At that moment came an order to fall in, and each one of these young men shamefacedly took position in the ranks, and beside each was the girl he was converting. But the procession had no sooner moved than each girl dropped behind the man with whom she had made the agreement aforesaid and, taking a stuffed club from a neighbor in the ranks, went through a pantomime of striking the banner carrier before her, only the club was not permitted to reach his back. The consequence was that the spectators were enjoying a performance of which the principals were ignorant. Finally a blow fell unintentionally on Ned's shoulder. He turned and saw the rank in the rear laughing at him. Throwing down his banner, he left the procession in high dudgeon.

The lines moved on, and pretty soon along came Jim, whom Ned's sister was treating in the same way Ned had been treated.

"Come out of that, Jim. You're making a guy of yourself. Look behind you."

AT THE NAUTILUS THIS WEEK.

It has been decided by the management of the Nautilus casino to continue free admission to the Palm Garden and bathing pavilion every day [illegible] lounging room in the bathing pavilion for reading or playing of games, and swimming and diving exhibitions are given there every afternoon and evening.

Exhibitions of modern dance movements are given every afternoon and evening in the ball room.

Mothers are especially invited to visit the Nautilus and allow their children to enjoy the playground and other amusements provided. Arrangements have been made for combined swimming and dancing classes for the young folks.

There has been much favorable comment regarding the Nautilus lady orchestra. Miss Alice M. Wyker has perfected an excellent organization and they render a high grade of music especially adapted to dancing. All the ladies are from Chicago. Their concerts Sunday afternoon and evening were highly praised by the hundreds who attended.

"BACK-FIRING" ENGINE SET DR. PIERSON'S YACHT ABLAZE

Dr. J. H. Pierson's yacht the Marella, while cruising in the river a short distance below South bridge Sunday afternoon, caught fire and was considerably damaged. Trouble was experienced with the boat's engine, and "backfiring" finally caused the ignition of the boat itself. The Marella was run upon a nearby sandbar and after an exciting few minutes the flames were extinguished.

The boat was left on the sandbar. In making his escape from the Marella, Dr. Pierson received an injury to one of his legs that will probably keep him at home for a few days.

GLORIES OF PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION REVEALED BY COMPLETED EXHIBIT PALACES

President Wilson to Attend on Battleship Oregon—Marvelous Exhibits From All Parts of the Earth Assembled by Forty-two Countries for the Hugest Conclave of Nations in History—Many Strange Displays Will Be Shown, Among Them Edison's Great "Telescribe"—Exhibits Increase Since War

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, America's stupendous celebration of the completion of the Panama canal, was 10 per cent completed several months before its formal opening on February 20, 1915. A glance at the work that had been accomplished gave evidence that the world was assured an exposition unrivaled in its splendor, interest and comprehensiveness.

President Wilson.

Despite the tremendous conflict in which Europe is involved, none of the European countries which had accepted the invitation to take official part in the exposition withdrew its participation. France, involved in the great struggle, reaffirmed its decision, and a stately French pavilion, a duplicate of the Palace of the Legion of Honor at Paris, will recall the heroic deeds of many gallant French soldiers who have won the Order of the Legion of Honor in the present conflict.

The exposition will be the scene of a great naval pageant, which will pass through the Panama canal to the Golden Gate. On March 24 President Wilson, on the historic battleship Oregon, will search the Golden Gate as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, having led the fleet of battleships of all nations which passed through the Panama canal in the correspondence attendant on the official opening of the canal. Mr. Wilson and his party will be the guests of the exposition until March 28. Despite the war in Europe, practically all of the nations will send one or more of their battleships to attend this occasion and attest their friendly feeling for the United States.

The proud pavilions of the foreign nations, each in characteristic architecture of the country it represents, lend a surpassing novelty and interest to this largest of world's expositions. Portugal, Italy, Spain, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Greece, Switzerland, Turkey, Persia, are represented nationally. German and British interests are also represented. From Italy came a number of almost priceless art exhibits, including many from the universal art exhibition at Genoa. Exhibits from the Ghent International exposition and from the exposition at Malmo, Sweden, as well as huge contingents from other regions, early reached San Francisco. No more wonderful tribute could have been accorded to the United States than that which the European countries gave in a period of tremendous stress.

Many strange and wonderful exhibits will be shown, among them Thomas A. Edison's wonderful "Telescribe," which is a telephone with a dictaphone attachment that records the telephone conversations on a dictaphone cylinder. This will prevent people from cutting in on the line and also makes a record of every telephone message.

Apart from the European participation, the exposition will be notable for its displays from other parts of the world. In its American participation, in the extent and quality of its exhibits, in the great number of wonderful architectural features and attractions of many kinds, the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is unprecedented. In its presentation of works of art, including sculptures and paintings, will be unrivalled. In its industrial exhibits there are presented more than eighty thousand individual exhibits and collections of exhibits, portraying the results of the world's best efforts of recent years.

Those who have read of the exposition abroad and then visited it in its preliminary stages, pronounced that their every expectation was far surpassed. Imagine, for the purposes of illustration, the interest, action and novelty of ten great circuses like Barnum and Bailey's in a single "greatest show on earth" and presented at ten times the cost of a single production and you will gain an idea of the magnitude of a single section of the exposition, the wonderful midway, or "Zone." A total of more than eleven million dollars is expended in this section.

The nations are not attempting to show everything they produce, but will exhibit those products in which they excel. In the Danish display will be shown exquisite products of the Royal Danish Porcelain factories at Copenhagen. Japan, in her lavish displays, will exhibit priceless works of art loaned under direction of the imperial household. Rare silks and tapestries, wonderful paintings of the old masters hitherto never exhibited in the orient, will be shown from Italy. From China there early reached San Francisco selections of priceless exhibits collected by the governors of the Chinese provinces—silks, satins, carvings, inlay work and precious metals, exhibits of transportation methods employed in the old China and more modern methods employed in the awakening republic will be portrayed. The Argentine, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Cochin and Belgian Congo, will show their resources on a vast scale.

The photographs on this page give an idea of some of the most recent wonders of the exposition.

EVERY CONTESTANT A WINNER

1915 NOT TO BE A BAD BUSINESS YEAR IN UNITED STATES

By VICTOR ELLIOT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—What does the new year hold in store for the United States? Will 1915 be marked by a continuation of economic and industrial depression, or will it usher in a new constructive era? These questions, and many others kindred to them are being asked anxiously in Washington just now.

The nation at large wants to know whether it is to continue "marking time," waiting impatiently for the mighty conflict across the Atlantic to be flung aside, or whether the new year will see a genuine revival of industry, whether civilization will take up the gigantic task of binding its wounds and regaining its spent vitality. With Europe lies the answer to the question as to whether the United States will be prosperous or not. The shadow of war lies deep upon the nation, with every household, every wage-earner, affected by its losses.

Even should the war continue, it is possible, even if not probable, that resumption of business activity in some degree should be affected. Washington is exceedingly hopeful that this can be brought about. The new banking and currency act, the railroad rate increase, and many other encouragements to business men, have given the politicians confidence that 1915 will be a vastly better year economically than 1914. They profess to see a silver lining in the present clouds, to discover in the United States a new industrial reconstructiveness born of its long boasted self-sustaining force and self-sufficiency. American brains have been concentrating on the task of neutralizing, as far as possible, the effects of the war, and to a certain extent the work has been successful.

The export trade of the United States at present bears a very healthy look, and the excess of exports over imports show a balance of trade greatly in our favor. Many of the leading industries in the export trade are at their normal level despite much surface evidence to the contrary. Cotton is paralyzed so far as export trade is concerned, and with it the entire south has been depressed; but for cotton export trade is going to improve steadily during the first months of the New Year.

While the first rosente predictions as to the effect of the granting of the rate increase to the railroads already have been disappointing, there is no question at all that the action of the Interstate Commerce commission will have a direct benefit upon the industrial situation. The railroad presidents admit that the "relief" makes them exceedingly grateful as they see a chance of getting back into the dividend earning class, but none of them say they expect the rate increase to mean the coming of old fashioned prosperity.

The reports of the department of commerce all have led Secretary of Commerce Redfield to believe that the business situation is now on the uplift. The month of December shows a greater improvement than any of the preceding six months. Europe is buying plenty of American products and the trade in war materials is mounting to larger proportions every week. It is possible that Europe may try to pay us for these purchases by re-selling American bonds and securities to us, thus avoiding the necessity of sending gold.

The imports of the nation are falling somewhat below their usual average at the present time, owing to the decrease in the consumption of luxuries in this country. One of the few helpful elements in the war situation, from the point of view of the United States, has been the increased attention given to the "home product" of many articles in which hitherto the import trade has been dominant.

Wealthy Americans are learning that high grade silks, laces, etc., are being made in their own country, and they do not have to go abroad to obtain the highest quality. There is every prospect that this fact will be equally recognized after the war is over.

The chances are excellent that 1915 will not be a bad year for this country, in view of the present extraordinary circumstances.

"AS YE SOW" BEING SHOWN AT CRYSTAL TODAY

The Crystal theater has a strong attraction today. "As Ye Sow," which was written by a clergyman, the Rev. John Snyder, and produced with great success ten years ago. Alice Brady, in the part of Dora, the "woman who suffers and endures," is a forceful feature of the play. The daughter of a wealthy man, she marries a good-looking young fellow from the country who has made an auspicious start in New York business life. He becomes a drunkard and illtreats his wife and baby child. Dora resents his cruelty and he robs her of the child, surreptitiously conveying it to his mother and then, himself, going away to sea on a fishing schooner.

Dora is in all essentials a widow, for the news comes that her vicious young husband was drowned at sea. Fresh sufferings await the girl, calling for the display of sustained emotional power on the part of Miss Brady. Concealing her identity she makes her way to the fishing village where her husband was born; becomes the [illegible] guest of his mother, [illegible] her own child, and excites the [illegible] her husband's brother, now a [illegible] man.

These poignant situations [illegible] photoplay a drama of strong [illegible] terest, and keep Miss Brady [illegible] to the forefront as an emotional actress.

Dora's troubles are about [illegible] meter with undiminished [illegible]. Her husband married her under a false name, so she is to [illegible] his relatives. And in this [illegible] insistence she lends a willing ear to the wooings of the Rev. John [illegible], her late husband's brother. The wedding is about to take place when a storm at sea arises; a ship is [illegible] is sighted; there is a call to man the lifeboat, and Dora's fiance [illegible]. Among the rescued there is [illegible] brutal husband, Frank, who [illegible] his wife and child, renounces his former life, and is later killed in a [illegible].

1915 NOT TO BE A BAD BUSINESS YEAR IN UNITED STATES

By VICTOR ELLIOT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—What does the new year hold in store for the United States? Will 1915 be marked by a continuation of economic and industrial depression, or will it usher in a new constructive era? These questions, and many others kindred to them are being asked anxiously in Washington just now.

The nation at large wants to know whether it is to continue "marking time," waiting impatiently for the mighty conflict across the Atlantic to be flung aside, or whether the new year will see a genuine revival of industry, whether civilization will take up the gigantic task of binding its wounds and regaining its spent vitality. With Europe lies the answer to the question as to whether the United States will be prosperous or not. The shadow of war lies deep upon the nation, with every household, every wage-earner, effected by its issues.

Even should the war continue, it is possible, even if not probable, that resumption of business activity in some degree should be affected. Washington is exceedingly hopeful that this can be brought about. The new banking and currency act, the railroad rate increase, and many other encouragements to business men, have given the politicians confidence that 1915 will be a vastly better year economically than 1914. They profess to see a silver lining in the present clouds, to discover in the United States a new industrial resourcefulness born of its long boasted self-sustaining force and self-sufficiency. American brains have been concentrating on the task of neutralizing, as far as possible, the effects of the war, and to a certain extent the work has been successful.

The export trade of the United States at present bears a very healthy look, and the excess of exports over imports show a balance of trade greatly in our favor. Many of the leading industries in the export trade are at their normal level despite much surface evidence to the contrary. Cotton is paralyzed so far as export trade is concerned, and with it the entire south has been depressed: but for cotton export trade is going to improve steadily during the first months of the New Year.

While the first roseate predictions as to the effect of the granting of the rate increase to the railroads already have been disappointing, there is no question at all that the action of the Interstate Commerce commission will have a direct benefit upon the industrial situation. The railroad presidents admit that the "relief" makes them exceedingly grateful as they see a chance of getting back into the dividend earning class, but none of them say they expect the rate increase to mean the coming of old fashioned prosperity.

The reports of the department of commerce all have led Secretary of Commerce Redfield to believe that the business situation is now on the uplift. The month of December shows a greater improvement than any of the preceeding six months. Europe is buying plenty of American products and the trade in war materials is mounting to larger proportions every week. It is possible that Europe may try to pay us for these purchases by re-selling American bonds and securities to us, thus avoiding the necessity of sending gold.

The imports of the nation are falling somewhat below their usual average at the present time, owing to the decrease in the consumption of luxuries in this country. One of the few helpful elements in the war situation, from the point of view of the United States, has been the increased attention given to the "home product" of many articles in which hitherto the import trade has been dominant.

Wealthy Americans are learning that high grade silks, laces, etc., are being made in their own country, and they do not have to go abroad to obtain the highest quality. There is every prospect that this fact will be equally recognized after the war is over.

The chances are excellent that 1915 will not be a bad year for this country, in view of the present extraordinary circumstances.

"AS YE SOW" BEING SHOWN AT CRYSTAL TODAY

The Crystal theater has a strong attraction today, "As Ye Sow," which was written by a clergyman, the Rev. John Snyder, and produced with great success ten years ago. Alice Brady, in the part of Dora, the "woman who suffers and endures," is a forceful feature of the play. The daughter of a wealthy man, she marries a good-looking young fellow from the country who has made an auspicious start in New York business life. He becomes a drunkard and ill-treats his wife and baby child. Dora resents his cruelty and he robs her of the child, surreptitiously conveying it to his mother and then, himself, going away to sea on a fishing schooner.

Dora is in all essentials a widow, for the news comes that her vicious young husband was drowned at sea. Fresh sufferings await the girl, calling for the display of sustained emotional power on the part of Miss Brady. Concealing her identity she makes her way to the fishing village where her husband was born: becomes the paying guest of his mother; recognizes her own child, and excites the love of her husband's brother, now a middle-aged man.

These poignant situations make the photoplay a drama of strong human interest, and keep Miss Brady at her tensest as an emotional actress.

Dora's troubles are about to commence with undiminished severity. Her husband married her under a false name, so she is in ignorance of his relatives. And in this state of ignorance she lends a willing ear to the wooings of the Rev. John St. [illegible] her late husband's brother. The wedding is about to take place when a storm at sea arises; a ship in distress is sighted; there is a call to man the lifeboat, and Dora's fiance volunteers. Among the rescued there is Dora's legal husband, Frank, who realizes his wife and child, resumes his dissolute life, and is later killed in a brawl.

MANAGER TITUS TURNS OVER CRYSTAL THEATER FOR AN EVENING TO LADIES' ADVISORY BOARD OF D. I. S.

Through the courtesy of Manager Roy T. Titus, the ladies' advisory board of the Daytona Industrial school will give a benefit performance for the Midway colored hospital at the Crystal theater next Friday evening. Manager Titus having kindly turned the theater over to the ladies of the board for that evening.

The need of a hospital for the negroes of this community was a want that had long been felt, and since the establishment of the one in Midway excellent work has been done not only at the hospital but also in the community work carried on by the nurses.

The hospital is supported entirely by donations and the ladies of the advisory board hope that the public, following the generous lead of Mayor Titus, will give this benefit its hearty support.

The film shown will be "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," by Charles Dickens. There will be two performances and two prices will be given away at each performance.

Tickets may be secured from the colored canvassers, at the door, or by applying to Mrs. J. D. Maley, Mrs. Ella L. O'Neill or Miss Margaret Rhodes, the committee in charge.

IS HERO OF HEROES

Corporal Rewarded for Repeated Acts of Gallantry.

With 25 Men He Occupies New German Trench and Defends It Against Whole Company—Rescues Officer Under Fire.

By R. FRANKLIN TATE.
(International News Service.)

Paris.—Corporal Phillip of the Twenty-fourth Colonial infantry is a brave of braves. He has been awarded the military medal for repeated acts of gallantry in this war. When his lieutenant fell wounded and the Germans were running up to capture him the corporal rushed in under their heavy fire and rescued his officer under their very noses. He is the kind of man who comes at once to the front when the situation is desperate.

The other day the colonel sent for him and said:

"Phillip, I know you are a gallant fellow, and that is my reason for intrusting you with an extremely perilous mission. At nightfall you will take 25 men and go to the crest yonder, where German soldiers are seen digging a trench. You are to endeavor to remain there in concealment till the morning, when you will return and report what you have seen."

At nightfall away went the little party. On reaching the crest the corporal saw German engineers digging a trench, while a sentry kept guard. Hiding 24 of his men in a little wood, he took the twenty-fifth man with him, saying: "When we get near the German sentry and he cries, 'Wer da?' you must keep apart from me, to the left, and make a noise with your bayonet, so as to make him turn your way. Then, no matter what he does or what I do, lie down and await my orders."

Stealthily the two approached so near the sentry that they could hear him softly humming a tune. Then Phillip moved to the right and intentionally made a slight noise.

"Wer da?" challenged the sentry. Instantly the soldier keeping to the left rattled his bayonet, and the German turned toward him. At the same moment Phillip was on him, running him through the body twice with his bayonet. His aim had been so true that the sentry dropped dead without a cry. The men working vigorously in the trench twenty or thirty yards away had heard nothing. Quicker than a quick-change artist the corporal donned the dead man's helmet and cloak and seizing his rifle began pacing up and down in his stead. Every now and then as he passed he rolled the body a little farther away. At last the trench was ready, and the Germans retired to the main body, calling a friendly good-by to the sentry, who, without a word continued on his beat. But they had no sooner disappeared than helmet and cloak were flung to the ground and the corporal was running toward the wood. A few minutes later the 26 French infantrymen were installed in the German trench.

At daybreak a Bavarian company marched up to occupy the trench. The men, all unsuspecting, were chatting and joking. A few yards away from the trench a murderous fire greeted them. They attempted to rush it, but 26 rifles kept mowing them down, and finally the survivors broke and fled—all except 24, who threw up their hands.

A few days later the corporal was shot in the right arm and shoulder, but refused to go to the ambulance. He fought on for the next 24 hours. In the thick of the fighting he shot a German officer, who fell. The corporal ran forward to bring him in, but the officer, drawing his revolver, fired the last shot, the bullet shattering the corporal's shoulder. The Frenchman had strength enough to beat out his enemy's brains with the butt end of his rifle, but then he collapsed with pain and loss of blood.

Danger in Taking Cold.

The public health as well as private comfort both would profit if general heed were given to the warnings of the departments of health and charities as to the dangers involved in catching cold. To remind people that pneumonia and consumption often have their origin in a common cold ought in itself to be enough to lead them to guard against what is in its after effects oftentimes one of the most dangerous of diseases.

Round of Pleasure.

"Well," mused six-year-old Harry as he was being buttoned into a clean white suit, "this has been an exciting week, hasn't it, mother? Monday we went to the zoo. Wednesday I lost a tooth. Thursday was Lily's birthday party. Friday I was sick, yesterday I had my hair cut; and now here I am rushing off to Sunday school!"

Astonishing Supplication.

A famous college principal used to give out notices at the morning devotional exercises, which always closed with a prayer. One morning he forgot a certain notice until he had begun his last prayer. Praying for the professors and students of the college, the notice from the French professor came to mind, and the assembled students were astonished to hear the president say: "And, O Lord, bless Professor Karge, whose French class will be held this morning at nine o'clock instead of at half-past nine, as usual."

Imperial Rome.

There are various estimates of the population of ancient Rome. One figure given by Gibbon was 1,200,000. Baker, in his notes to Montesquieu's "Grandeur and Decadence of the Romans," gives good reasons for thinking that Rome's population was 2,000,000. The city had within its walls, in the time of Theodosius, 48,382 habitations, built, as a rule, with several stories.

The Devil's Inn

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

If you have ever visited the city of Zacatecas, Mexico, you have heard the story of "The Devil's Inn" and have been mystified over it. If you have not heard the story by word of mouth you will be interested in it.

On the highway to San Luis, about four miles out of Zacatecas, are the ruins of the inn. They have been ruins since 1884.

The landlord and most of his customers were a hard lot, and during the four or five years the place flourished it had a bad name. The authorities had about determined to close the inn when it was suddenly abandoned by the owner. The most that could be learned from the servants was that a stranger came there one night and had a long and confidential conversation with the landlord and next morning both were missing. The place was overhauled, but no traces of murder were found. The servants scattered, the doors were nailed up, and the Holy Rest was left to darkness and the bats. Of course it soon had the reputation of being haunted, and after a couple of years an incident occurred that gave it a still worse name. A young man belonging to one of the best families of Monterey, who happened to be in Zacatecas on a visit, made a wager that he would pass a night alone in the inn. He rode out before dark, well armed and provided with lights, and was seen to enter the place by a window. Next day his naked body was found on the highway in front of the house. He had been dead for hours, and it was the opinion of the doctors that he had been attacked by a wild beast.

A company of fifty soldiers went out and searched the inn. The search was a thorough one, but no trace of man or animal could be found.

I was one of the four American civil engineers employed by the local government of Zacatecas in the years named to make surveys for a drainage canal, and, of course, I heard of the devil's inn, as it had long been called. That the people were earnest and sincere in their talk made no difference to me. I had no belief in haunted houses, and my sarcastic reflections made me enemies. Perhaps things would not have gone as far as they did but for the chief of police of Zacatecas. He called on me one day in serious mood and said:

"I want to warn you against making any foolish move in connection with the devil's inn. The place is surely haunted and dangerous to life, no matter what you think. Don't be silly enough to pay it a night's visit, as I hear you contemplate doing."

I had contemplated nothing of the kind, but the chief had scarcely finished when I was resolved to take that very step. My chum was named Clark, a young man from Chicago, and I had no sooner broached the subject to him than he was ready for the adventure. For fear that the authorities might stop us we let only a few people into our plan, and one Saturday afternoon, equipped with everything deemed necessary, we were driven out to the inn.

Our first step was to carefully inspect every room and the cellar, and we did not find so much as a rat. We had brought our pipes, wine and luncheon, with a pack of cards to divert ourselves, and neither one of us had the slightest idea of anything coming to alarm us. As we sat down to the cards our revolvers were laid on the table, and we laughed and joked without restraint. We had braced the doors shut with stout boards, and our first alarm came when one of these boards fell down and the door swung wide open, so that we could look into the kitchen.

This incident happened about 10 o'clock. Three-quarters of an hour later the door leading to the office was tried from the far side. We not only heard it creak and give, but we could see the brace quiver under the strain. There was no sound of footsteps or whispering. Rising with the utmost caution, we grasped our revolvers and tiptoed to the door. When we reached it we suddenly jerked the brace away and sprang back. The door flew back with great violence, but there was nobody on the other side.

When the door had been secured as before we returned to our game and spoke in whispers and kept very quiet. After half an hour we abandoned the cards and sat listening. I think it was half an hour after midnight and we were both probably nodding in sleep when both doors were suddenly burst open with a crash, our candles were blown out by what seemed a strong wind, and the next instant I was seized, lifted off my feet and carried to the broken window of the office and flung out. While I lay on the ground Clark followed me, and we heard a queer sort of chuckling from the window above. We both scrambled up and ran for our lives and in time reached the city. Neither of us was much hurt, but we had received a great fright. What had attacked us we could not say.

We went at once to the police, but even as we told our story we saw a red glare on the sky and knew the devil's inn was on fire. Next day we visited the place with a strong detachment of police. We found nothing but the walls standing. The unknown something that had flung us out had fired the place by accident or design, and the smoke stained adobe walls are yet there for you to see and wonder over.

Danger in Taking Cold.

The public health as well as private comfort both would profit if general heed were given to the warnings of the departments of health and charities as to the dangers involved in catching cold. To remind people that pneumonia and consumption often have their origin in a common cold ought in itself to be enough to lead them to guard against what is in its after effects oftentimes one of the most dangerous of diseases.

Round of Pleasure.

"Well," mused six-year-old Harry as he was being buttoned into a clean white suit, "this has been an exciting week, hasn't it, mother? Monday we went to the zoo. Wednesday I lost a tooth. Thursday was Lily's birthday party. Friday I was sick, yesterday I had my hair cut; and now here I am rushing off to Sunday school!"

Astonishing Supplication.

A famous college principal used to give out notices at the morning devotional exercises, which always closed with a prayer. One morning he forgot a certain notice until he had begun his last prayer. Praying for the professors and students of the college, the notice from the French professor came to mind, and the assembled students were astonished to hear the president say: "And, O Lord, bless Professor Karge, whose French class will be held this morning at nine o'clock instead of at half-past nine, as usual."

Imperial Rome.

There are various estimates of the population of ancient Rome. One figure given by Gibbon was 1,200,000. Baker, in his notes to Montesquieu's "Grandeur and Decadence of the Romans," gives good reasons for thinking that Rome's population was 2,000,000. The city had within its walls, in the time of Theodosius, 48,332 habitations, built, as a rule, with several stories.

"FIREWORKS" IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

An incorrigible 14-year-old girl, who, according to her mother's own story, would not "pay no mo' heahin'" to the latter's admonitions for better behavior than to a "low-down, mangy, one-laigged dawg," caused Helen Tooks, Ed Adams, and Sevilla Adams, all colored, to be arrested Sunday afternoon for disorderly conduct. The trio of dusky darktown denizens were arraigned before Mayor Titus, Monday morning. The testimony given by Ed, Sevilla, Helen—and the coal thrown cause of the mixup (don't forget her) was not only interesting but picturesque—yes, it was more than that, punctuated as it was with language sufficiently lurid to remind one of the seventh circle of Dante's "Inferno."

Briefly, Helen Tooks was and is a female personage with whom Sevilla did not want her unruly offspring to visit or to associate in any manner. The said n. o. felt otherwise about the matter, and insisted upon acting accordingly. The upshot of the disagreement was that the mother and Ed Adams, her husband, also paid the reputedly demimonde damsel a visit and "cussed her out to a frazzled fare you well"—which means that they laid on "cuss" words as long as they would stick on Helen's indignant form.

When the mayor had partially recovered from the shock resultant from listening at the several brimstone-and-damnation flavored recitals, he dismissed the Tooks girl with a reprimand and fined the Adamses three dollars each, advising Sevilla to consult the proper authorities about having her wayward daughter placed in some house of correction.

"EXTEND FIRST ST." SAYS F. M. TERRILL

METHOD SUGGESTED TO DIVERT HEAVY TRAFFIC FROM RIDGEWOOD AVENUE AND PREVENT CONGESTION.

That the extension of First street north as far as Fairview avenue would eliminate much congestion of the traffic on Ridgewood avenue, is the opinion of F. M. Terrill.

"If First street were to be extended northward as far as Fairview avenue," said Mr. Terrill to a representative of this paper, "all heavy traffic bound for the east side of the river could be compelled to use that street instead of Ridgewood avenue, as is now the custom. The slow-moving wagons and automobiles used for hauling building materials and heavy freight are slow to turn out to allow other vehicles to pass on Ridgewood avenue, which is entirely a residential avenue, and my suggestion to make the extension of First street would, I believe, eliminate most of this inconvenience to drivers of automobiles and carriages. All heavy traffic that crosses the concrete bridge could come down Bay street from First street and that to cross the Central bridge would proceed up First street as far as Fairview and then turn eastward."

FOSTER COMPANY

MISS FLORENCE A. GITTENS AND WILLIAM B. MILLS WED

Miss Florence Ada Gittens and William Burdette Mills were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gittens, on South Beach street, the ring service being used by Rev. J. H. Elder, pastor of the First M. E. church, who conducted the wedding service.

The parlor of the residence in which the ceremony was performed was beautifully decorated for the event with flowers and greenery and the bridal couple, entering to the strains of the wedding march, effectively rendered by Mrs. C. A. Randall of Daytona Beach, took their stations beneath a handsome floral arch. Miss Rosalind M. Otis was bridesmaid and Justus Dallow acted as best man.

The bride was attired in a costume of pale pink silk crepe meteor with crystal trimmings and wore a wreath of orange blossoms. Following the ceremony refreshments were served.

The wedding was largely attended by relatives and friends of the contracting couple who have many friends in Daytona and vicinity to wish them happiness in their married life.

Mr. Mills, who is a Georgian by birth, and originally from Whigham in that state, came to Daytona a year or more ago from Lakeland and both he and his bride, who is a Daytona girl, are employes of the Journal and will continue in their positions of foreman and linotype operator with that paper, making their home at the William Kirk residence on South Beach street, where they have taken apartments.

HUNTED FOR "SKINNERS" AND CAUGHT PAIR OF "TIGERS"

Members of the city police force raided a colored joint at Midway Saturday night about 12:00 o'clock and arrested two negroes, Israel Johnson and Will Johnson, for selling whiskey illegally. Gad Taylor, the colored officer in the negro section of the city, observed numerous men going in and coming out of a building, and thinking that a "skin" game was in progress, reported the matter to Chief Milton. Accompanied by Officers Humphries, Johnson, McCoskey, and the colored policeman, the chief went to the suspected place, surrounded it and went inside. Instead of finding a game of gamblers the two negroes named were caught "red-handed" in the act of bartering booze. They were locked up and later carried to DeLand to await trial in the county criminal court.

MISS FLORENCE A. GITTENS AND WILLIAM B. MILLS WED

Miss Florence Ada Gittens and William Burdette Mills were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gittens, on South Beach street, the ring service being used by Rev. J. H. Elder, pastor of the First M. E. church, who conducted the wedding service.

The parlor of the residence in which the ceremony was performed was beautifully decorated for the event with flowers and greenery and the bridal couple, entering to the strains of the wedding march, effectively rendered by Mrs. C. A. Randall of Daytona Beach, took their stations beneath a handsome floral arch. Miss Rosalind M. Otis was bridesmaid and Justus Dallow acted as best man.

The bride was attired in a costume of pale pink silk crepe meteor with crystal trimmings and wore a wreath of orange blossoms. Following the ceremony refreshments were served.

The wedding was largely attended by relatives and friends of the contracting couple who have many friends in Daytona and vicinity to wish them happiness in their married life.

Mr. Mills, who is a Georgian by birth, and originally from Whigham in that state, came to Daytona a year or more ago from Lakeland and both he and his bride, who is a Daytona girl, are employes of the Journal and will continue in their positions of foreman and linotype operator with that paper, making their home at the William Eick residence on South Beach street, where they have taken apartments.

HUNTED FOR "SKINNERS" AND CAUGHT PAIR OF "TIGERS"

Members of the city police force raided a colored joint at Midway Saturday night about 12:00 o'clock and arrested two negroes, Israel Johnson and Will Johnson, for selling whiskey illegally. Gad Taylor, the colored officer in the negro section of the city, observed numerous men going in and coming out of a building, and thinking that a "skin" game was in progress, reported the matter to Chief Milton. Accompanied by Officers Humphries, Johnson, McCoubrey, and the colored policeman, the chief went to the suspected place, surrounded it and went inside. Instead of finding a gang of gamblers the two negroes named were caught "red-handed" in the act of bartering booze. They were locked up and later carried to DeLand to await trial in the county criminal court.

"FIREWORKS" IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT.

An incorrigible 14-year-old girl, who, according to her mother's own story, would not "pay no mo' 'tention" to the latter's admonitions for better behavior than to a "low-down, mangy, one-laigged dawg," caused Helen Tooks, Ed Adams, and Sevilla Adams, all colored, to be arrested Sunday afternoon for disorderly conduct. The trio of dusky darktown denizens were arraigned before Mayor Titus, Monday morning. The testimony given by Ed, Sevilla, Helen—and the coal-tinted cause of the mixup (don't forget her) was not only interesting but picturesque—yea, it was more than that, punctuated as it was with language sufficiently lurid to remind one of the seventh circle of Dante's "Inferno."

Briefly, Helen Tooks was and is a female personage with whom Sevilla did not want her unruly offspring to visit or to associate in any manner. The said u. o. felt otherwise about the matter, and insisted upon acting accordingly. The upshot of the disagreement was that the mother and Ed Adams, her husband, also paid the reputedly deminonde damsel a visit and "cussed her out to a frazzled fare-you-well"—which means that they laid on "cuss" words as long as they would stick on Helen's indignant form.

When the mayor had partially recovered from the shock resultant from listening at the several brimstone-and-damnation tinctured recitals, he dismissed the Tooks girl with a reprimand and fined the Adamses three dollars each, advising Sevilla to consult the proper authorities about having her wayward daughter placed in some house of correction.

METHOD SUGGESTED TO DIVERT HEAVY TRAFFIC TROM RIDGEWOOD AVENUE AND PREVENT CONGESTION.

That the extension of First street north as far as Fairview avenue would eliminate much congestion of the traffic on Ridgewood avenue, is the opinion of F. M. Terrill.

"If First street were to be extended northward as far as Fairview avenue," said Mr. Terrill to a representative of this paper, "all heavy traffic bound for the east side of the river could be compelled to use that street instead of Ridgewood avenue, as is now the custom. The slow-moving wagons and automobiles used for hauling building materials and heavy freight are slow to turn out to allow other vehicles to pass on Ridgewood avenue, which is entirely a residential avenue, and my suggestion to make the extension of First street would, I believe, eliminate most of this inconvenience to drivers of automobiles and carriages. All heavy traffic that crosses the concrete bridge could come down Bay street from First street and that to cross the Central bridge would proceed up First street as far as Fairview and then turn eastward."

Japanese Woman Pearl Divers.

For centuries past one of the curious customs of Japan has been the employment of woman as divers in the pearl industry. Formerly whole families became divers, but later the prerogative became more and more that of the women until now fully ninety per cent of Japanese pearls are gathered by Japanese women divers. A movement begun several years ago to replace them with men has been opposed bitterly by the women.

Much Damage by Waterspout.

Waterspouts of an unusual size have become so rare in the plains of India that the report of one visiting the heights of Kashmir is a matter for some surprise. The bursting of a waterspout is an exciting experience, and, if it is big enough, a fatal one to those who happen to be within its reach. Happily there were few people close enough to the visitation on the Sonamgarg road to feel its effect. But its volume may be judged from the fact that it washed away the road, a bridge, part of a village, and drowned many cattle. After damaging the village, the water burst with great violence down a deep narrow nullah, carrying with it trees, rocks and mud and obliterated the road for some hundred yards or more.

Dr. Wiley Prepares an Ideal Food Box For Starving Belgium

New Plan of Relief Suggested by Washington Woman---How You Can Aid the Stricken Little Sister of the World

By WILL IRWIN

MRS. JOSEPH DARLING DIRECTING THE PACKING OF IDEAL FOOD BOXES.

THIS is going to be a pretty hard winter in America. The war in Europe has disturbed business in every direction. We have a few hungry people ourselves. And yet Belgium, a brave little, thrifty little nation of 7,000,000 people, is going to starve to death this winter unless America feeds the Belgians. How are we going to take care both of our own and of the "stricken little sister of the world?"

A woman solved the problem. Mrs. Joseph Darling of Washington had been knitting stockings and scarfs for European war sufferers until it occurred to her that she might be using her brains as well as her fingers. She sat down forthwith and thought out the idea of "food boxes for Belgium." Mrs. Darling saw Dr. Harvey Wiley, who laid out the ideal food boxes for Belgian relief, and their plan has now been taken up by the women's section of the commission for relief in Belgium, of which Mrs. Lindon Bates is chairman.

Dr. Wiley's box for Belgian adults, as slightly revised to get its weight inside the parcel post regulations, is as follows: Three No. 2 tins of beans, three No. 1 tins of pink Alaska salmon, one five-pound sack of rolled oats, one five-pound sack of yellow cornmeal, one five-pound sack of yellow split peas, one two-pound sack of granulated sugar, one three-pound sack of California prunes, one seven-pound sack of wheat flour, one one-pound sack of salt, one can opener, one box.

That, however, is only a guide to the kind of food which the Belgians need. It is intended mainly for such Americans as can afford to go and order boxes from the grocer. Belgium wants any kind of food which will stand ocean transportation, which excludes fresh fruit and vegetables.

The commission for relief in Belgium has arranged with the postoffice department to transmit all Belgian relief foodstuffs free of cost to the donor. If you put your name and address on the package and add the letter "R" the money expended for stamps will be refunded by the commission. The package should weigh not less than twenty pounds and not more than fifty.

Packages mailed from FLORIDA should be addressed to WIESENFELD WAREHOUSE COMPANY, JACKSONVILLE, who are collecting agents for this district.

Dr. Wiley Prepares an Ideal Food Box For Starving Belgium

New Plan of Relief Suggested by Washington Woman---How You Can Aid the Stricken Little Sister of the World

By WILL IRWIN

MRS. JOSEPH DARLING DIRECTING THE PACKING OF IDEAL FOOD BOXES.

THIS is going to be a pretty hard winter in America. The war in Europe has disturbed business in every direction. We have a few hungry people ourselves. And yet Belgium, a brave little, thrifty little nation of 7,000,000 people, is going to starve to death this winter unless America feeds the Belgians. How are we going to take care both of our own and of the "stricken little sister of the world?"

A woman solved the problem. Mrs. Joseph Darling of Washington had been knitting stockings and scarfs for European war sufferers until it occurred to her that she might be using her brains as well as her fingers. She sat down forthwith and thought out the idea of "food boxes for Belgium." Mrs. Darling saw Dr. Harvey Wiley, who laid out the ideal food boxes for Belgian relief, and their plan has now been taken up by the woman's section of the commission for relief in Belgium, of which Mrs. Lindon Bates is chairman.

Dr. Wiley's box for Belgian adults, as slightly revised to get its weight inside the parcel post regulations, is as follows: Three No. 3 tins of beans, three No. 1 tins of pink Alaska salmon, one five-pound sack of rolled oats, one five-pound sack of yellow cornmeal, one five-pound sack of yellow split peas, one two-pound sack of granulated sugar, one three-pound sack of California prunes, one seven-pound sack of wheat flour, one one-pound sack of salt, one can opener, one box.

That, however, is only a guide to the kind of food which the Belgians need. It is intended mainly for such Americans as can afford to go and order boxes from the grocer. Belgium wants any kind of food which will stand ocean transportation, which excludes fresh fruit and vegetables.

The commission for relief in Belgium has arranged with the postoffice department to transmit all Belgian relief foodstuffs free of cost to the donor. If you put your name and address on the package and add the letter "R" the money expended for stamps will be refunded by the commission. The package should weigh not less than twenty pounds and not more than fifty.

BIGGEST SOCIAL EVENT OF THE PRESENT YEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The civic ball and entertainment for the poor at the Plaza tomorrow night will be the most important social event of the year. Miss Florence Guernsey, president of the New York City Federation of Women's clubs today said: "Our brothers and sisters throughout the entire world are near to us and dear to us in times of trouble. But it is the brother and sister at home who must have the first helping hand—and that is what we propose to give."

Mrs. Burns, president of the Little Mothers' Aid society, said that her organization had felt the pressure more this year than at any other time since it was organized. All society [illegible] have interested themselves in the work. Officers of labor organizations who have especial facilities for telling the number of unemployed have given out figures which show that 472,[illegible] members of labor organizations are without work or working on part time.

Beads' Place in Art.

In the archaic art of all the prehistoric civilization the use of beads is shown on even the crudest paintings and sculptures; and, as we approach the later ages, of which we possess at least crude written records, we find the bead still maintaining its importance as the chief feminine decoration. In fact, it may be accepted without hesitation that practically all our own articles of jewelry are derived from prototypes which were originally but manners of wearing strings or pendants of beads.

ANNUAL BALL and DINNER at CLARENDON HOTEL

: : : : A BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR : : : :

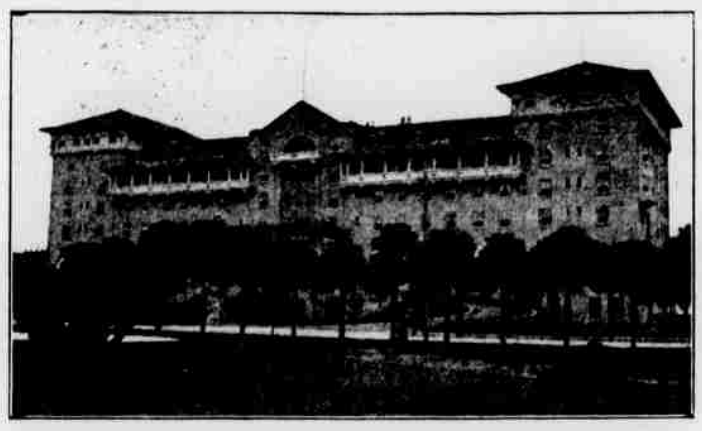

The annual ball and dinner given at the Clarendon hotel, Saturday night, was attended by something over 500 persons, and was considered one of the most successful and brilliant affairs in the history of this magnificent hostelry.

Shortly before six o'clock the guests began to arrive in automobiles and by seven the lobby of the hotel was filled to capacity with beautifully gowned women and conventionally attired gentlemen. These repaired to the dining room where reservations for 250 had previously been made, and a course dinner elaborate in every detail was served by a bevy of waitresses under the personal direction of J. H. Looby.

After dinner the guests made their way to the ball room where the orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Harry Tucker, played a most delightful program of popular dance music, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

HOW MANY TIMES HAVE YOU SAID

"IF I HAD ONLY BOUGHT LOTS OVER ON THE BEACH WHEN I FIRST CAME HERE I MIGHT HAVE BEEN RICH TODAY. I COULD HAVE BOUGHT ACRES FOR THE PRICE AT WHICH SINGLE LOTS ARE SELLING TODAY. ACREAGE CANNOT BE BOUGHT AT ANY PRICE. WHAT A FOOL I WAS." LET US POINT OUT A WAY FOR YOU TO GET IN AND MAKE UP.

DID YOU IMAGINE SUCH A THING AS A STREET CAR LINE TO THE BEACH FIVE YEARS AGO? PERHAPS YOU DID IMAGINE IT—IT IS A REALITY NOW. WOULD YOU HAVE BEGGED, BORROWED, OR ARRANGED IN SOME WAY TO GET HOLD OF ENOUGH MONEY TO BUY SOME BEACH PROPERTY, COULD YOU HAVE BEEN ASSURED THAT A CAR LINE WAS GOING TO BE BUILT TO YOUR PROPERTY? IF ANYONE COULD HAVE TOLD YOU POSITIVELY THAT THE CLARENDON HOTEL WAS GOING TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE DONE LIKEWISE, BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY POSSIBLE, ACCORDING TO YOUR MEANS? COULD ANYONE HAVE ASSURED YOU THAT THE NAUTILUS PROPERTY WAS TO BE IMPROVED AS IT IS TODAY—THAT A BASEBALL PARK WAS TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY YOU COULD HAVE GOT HOLD OF?

THE STREET CAR LINE IS NOW BEING EXTENDED THROUGH OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS, WHICH WILL PUT IT WITHIN TWELVE MINUTES' RIDE OF DOWNTOWN. COMPARE THE PRICES OF SEABREEZE LOTS WITH THE PRICES WE ARE ASKING FOR OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS LOTS. WE ARE OFFERING THE OCEAN FRONT LOTS, WHICH ARE FIFTY BY THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOUR, AT SIX HUNDRED AND NINETY-FIVE DOLLARS EACH, WHILE THE INSIDE LOTS, FIFTY BY ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY, ARE OFFERED AT ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY DOLLARS EACH. A TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT PAYMENT IS ALL THAT IS REQUIRED DOWN, WITH EASY TERMS.

WERE WE TO PREDICT THAT WITHIN A FEW YEARS THE ENTIRE BEACH WILL HAVE A BOARD-WALK WITH AN OCEAN PIER, LARGE HOTELS, WHICH WILL COMPARE FAVORABLY WITH THOSE OF ATLANTIC CITY. THAT STREET CAR LINES WILL CONNECT WITH DELAND, NEW SMYRNA, SANFORD, ORLANDO AND OTHER INTERIOR POINTS, YOU WOULD CALL US DREAMERS, BUT WE ARE PREDICTING JUST THAT VERY THING. NOW THINK OF WHAT THIS WILL MEAN TO THE PROPERTY ON THE BEACH. NOW IS THE TIME, MR. READER, TO GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR WHILE THESE PRICES ARE REDICULOUSLY LOW, FOR WHEN ALL THESE THINGS SHALL HAVE TAKEN PLACE THE PRICES NATURALLY WILL BE WAY UP, AND YOU SHOULD BE THE ONE TO REAP THE BENEFIT, FOR ONCE IN YOUR LIFE PUT YOURSELF IN THE POSITION WHERE THE OTHER FELLOW WILL HAVE TO SAY, "YOU HAVE MADE A LOT OF MONEY ON LOTS WHICH YOU WERE FARSIGHTED ENOUGH TO PURCHASE WHEN THE PRICES WERE LOW."

IT'S NOT LUCK—IT IS JUST GOOD BUSINESS SENSE—TAKING ADVANTAGE OF AN OPPORTUNITY—AN OPPORTUNITY THAT DOES NOT COME EVERY DAY, AND YOU SHOULD NOT DELAY. IT WILL BE A PLEASURE TO DEMONSTRATE THE PROPERTY TO YOU, IF YOU WILL GIVE US THE OPPORTUNITY, AND TELL YOU OF THE CONTEMPLATED IMPROVEMENTS AND ANY FURTHER PARTICULARS THAT YOU MAY DESIRE. NOW IS THE TIME TO INVESTIGATE. OPPORTUNITY IS KNOCKING AT YOUR DOOR. DON'T PASS IT UP.

THE DAYTONA HIGH SCHOOL SENTINEL

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF STUDENT BODY OF DAYTONA HIGH SCHOOL MAKES ITS SEVENTH APPEARANCE AS AN ANNUAL.

The "Sentinel," official organ of the student body of Daytona High school, made its 7th appearance as an annual Saturday. The "Sentinel "of this year shows improvements over its predecessors in several lines, most notably in the art department, a dozen "cuts" being interspersed throughout the reading matter. The department devoted to athletics, joke, exchange, school news, and alumni departments are also larger and fully as interesting as heretofore, while the editorials and literary matter are above those of the average high school paper.

The Rothschilds.

Of course any attempt by an outsider at estimating the wealth of the Rothschilds must be in the nature of a guess, but there are excellent reasons for concluding that the family is worth at least $1,400,000,000.

Promising Investment.

"The lasting, delightful perfume of the age. One who can prove that the perfume of Otto Mohini is not lasting for four days by putting five drops on the handkerchief will be rewarded Rs. 100 cash. Try only small tube and get the reward."—Advertisement in Hitavada.—Punch.

What We May Expect.

"Now an automobile has been introduced which plays tunes." "More expense. I suppose next any man who pretends to be in the swim will have to own a grand-opera car, a light-opera runabout and something sedate for Sundays."

THIS WEEK'S BILL AT THE NEW DAYTONA THEATRE

At the New Dawtona theatre Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, a program of high class vaudeville acts has been secured, headed by Fry's acrobatic goats. Other numbers include Miss Doris Illington, Rhea and Illington, Chas. D. Rhea and John E. Norman, better known as the "biking concertoonist." This bill will be shown in connection with the regular program of pictures, and the line up looks like one to please almost any kind of taste. During the week each person attending the theatre will be given a slip on which to write a name for a musical comedy company to be organized here soon. The winner will be given a cash prize of $5.00 at Saturday night's performance, but to be a winner the composer of the lucky name must be in the theatre at the time the prize is awarded. In case the holder of the first name picked is not at the theatre Saturday night, other names will be drawn from those offered, until a winner is found.

Wednesday evening, January 13, the attraction at the New Daytona theatre will be "Within the Law."

Beauty Is in the Ideal.

Why Pheasant Is Valued.

The renown of the pheasant as a game bird is due to its skill in hiding itself on the ground, the fine shots that it offers when driven from cover, and the opportunities it affords to the fine art of cookery.

MOTOR ACCIDENT BUT NO ONE INJURED

An automobile accident that might have resulted in serious injury to two people occurred Sunday afternoon, when a car driven by J. F. Llewellan and his wife of Daytona Beach overturned at Bostwick Park. Mr. and Mrs. Llewellan had turned into a drive and while on an incline the motor stopped and the car commenced to back. Before it could be stopped it had backed over a grade and turned turtle with the occupants under it. Fortunately both escaped injury.

HOTEL SIGNS AT RAILWAY DEPOT

PERMISSION GRANTED LAST WINTER BY FLAGLER SYSTEM BEING PUT TO USE THIS SEASON. SOME SIGNS NOW IN PLACE.

The request made last winter by the Daytona Hotel Men's association and granted at that time by the Flagler System, for the display of hotel signs at the 'bus stands at the passenger depot, is now being put into use by the hotels and several signs bearing the names of hotels of the city are now in place, while others are still in the hands of the sign painter, W. H. Wright, at his shop on First street. The neatly lettered signs are suspended over the position occupied by the various hotel 'busses, a galvanized iron frame having been erected for the purpose under the eaves of the shed at which the 'busses have their stands.

No soliciting by hotel porters is permitted at the depot and this system of having signs designating the hotels for which the 'busses are running should be of great assistance to passengers alighting from the trains at this place, particularly where the selection of a hotel has been made before arriving here.

Optimistic Thought.

A true genius may be known by this sign, that the dunces are all in confederacy against him.

Uncle Eben.

"Be patient," said Uncle Eben, "but don't mope around an' imagine you're a Job when you're only a Jonah!"

English Puddings.

A book could be written on English puddings alone, so many and varied are they, and they have been closely associated with English festivities since very early records. Sometimes the puddings are of enormous size. At Aughton-on-Halton puddings weighing a ton are sometimes made on festive occasions. Every 50 years a monster pudding is made at Paignton in Devonshire. The last one weighed 1½ tons and required eight horses to haul it through the village green. It was formerly the custom to drive the pudding in state through the streets of Exeter on the way to Paignton. The Paignton pudding is generally boiled for about four days in a brewer's copper.

THE WEATHER.

For Florida: Rain tonight; colder in the northwestern portion Tuesday. Local rains tomorrow except in the northwestern section, where it will be fair and colder. Fresh winds from the east and southeast.

A Time-Saver.

Farmer Oatcake—"Mandy, every feller's bound to be worked up over the political situation this year." Mrs. Oatcake—"Mebbe, Silas; but as it only takes you a few minutes to vote, I don't jest see the sense of talking about it for three months ahead."

Dangerous Little Scratches.

The Milwaukee-Western Fuel company has had several cases that resulted from the neglect of the injured workmen to have scratches treated properly immediately after receiving the injuries. Pricks from broken cable strands are considered particularly dangerous, as the wounds usually are deeper than appearances indicate. Each wound is so round and small that it soon closes up at the surface and does not allow for proper drainage. Wounds of more than a superficial nature should have a physician's care at once. After infection has set in it is one of the hardest things to keep from spreading.

They Who Know.

Think of the long procession of dull people that you pass daily on the street, noticing them only as the drab background for the young faces which, to you, shine out like stars, advises Cornelia A. P. Comer in the Atlantic. They seem unimportant folk, and you find them as stupid as babies do grown-ups—yet these are they who know the secrets of the Seven Stars and Plato's Year! They have solved the long problem of work; they have irrigated deserts, washed down hills, tunneled mountains, sailed strange seas, controlled vast engines. They have also fronted death fearlessly and been convinced of immortality. They have looked at Love aghast and found in themselves infinite springs of tenderness to quench the flames of lust and greed. They have created new bodies and new souls. Lying in kings' houses or fouled in the mire, starved, gorged, scorched, frozen, lifted up to heaven, cast down to hell—from all this have they learned nothing?

ALABAMA TO GO DRY AGAIN.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 11.—Prohibitionists who now control the Alabama legislature will this week pass a statewide prohibition bill. The saloons, which have been running in the larger cities for the last four years, probably will be permitted to run six months longer, to permit the proprietors to close up their business.
